Pressure Is On To Expand Agenda Of State Assembly

COLUMBUS, July 20—The pressure began to build up today on Gov. Thomas Herbert to expand his call for a special session of the legislature.

The State Civil Service Employees Association was the first to get under the wire. It asked the governor to provide for a 35 percent pay increase over and above the 40 percent already granted in postwar raises.

The local governments can be expected to come next—and they have powerful backing among the legislators themselves. Moreover, there is one school of thought that contends that, since Herbert has called for the elimination of the three percent sales tax on all purchases of less than 41 cents, he has opened the entire sales tax question.

That would include the formula of distribution of sales tax revenues to the subdivisions. Herbert, however, contends that the wording of his call precludes anything other than the elimination of what he termed "the ten percent portion of the tax."

REPRESENTATIVES of the local governments are meeting today in Lorain to map their demands.

And from a third source—State Rep. Fred George, Cincinnati Republican, came a request that Herbert broaden his call to relieve counties of the cost of caring for indigent hospital patients, and to increase from one to three years the residence requirements of persons applying for relief.

The governor made it plain

Dixiecrats Plot Way To Get On November Ballot

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 20—The South awaited developments today on plans for getting the Jeffersonian Democrats ticket on the presidential ballot in the November election.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, standard-bearer for the Dixiecrats who bolted the regular party on the states' rights issue, was silent about plans for his meeting with Mississippi Gov. Fielding L. Wright, his runningmate.

However, Thurmond said he was confident of success in the forthcoming battle against President Truman's civil rights program.

The big question-mark in the campaign before a "formal" convention of the Jeffersonian Democrats in Birmingham, Oct. 1 was the states' rights' ability to get the electoral support of the 11 Southern states. Only in Alabama has the Thurmond-Wright ticket been given assurance of a place on the ballot. State Democratic Chairman Gessner T. McCorvey said the Jeffersonians are recognized in Alabama as the only Democratic Party.

Frau Emmy Up

FRANKFURT, July 20—The denazification trial of Frau Emmy Goering, widow of the late Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, opened today before a special court at a Garmisch internment camp hospital.

Radical Socialists Seen Taking Over In France

PARIS, July 20—French President Vincent Auriol opened conferences today on formation of a new cabinet to replace the resigned government of Premier Robert Schuman.

Among the first Auriol talked with was the Communist Party leader, Maurice Thorez. The confab with political leaders were undertaken amid the most unprecedented confusion since foundation of the Fourth French Republic.

UN Confident Zion Truce To Produce Peace

LAKE SUCCESS, July 19—United Nations circles discounted today fears that current truce violations in Palestine may erupt into a full-scale resumption of warfare.

They were confident of the ability of UN Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte to bring about full compliance with the cease-fire order, stressing that the fear of threatened economic and military sanctions will probably bring the Arabs and Jews in line.

Meanwhile, leading Western delegates favored allowing Bernadotte a free hand in settling the Holy Land problem. Another meeting of the Security Council is pending to deal with Syria's resolution to place the matter before the International Court of Justice, but there was little chance of approval of the Syrian plan.

Meanwhile, from Tel Aviv, an Israeli army communique reported continued fighting between Jews and Syrian and Iraqi forces on several sectors of the Northern Palestine front.

The fighting reportedly is taking place mainly along the Syrian frontier north of the Sea of Galilee and north of Jenin, which is situated 40 miles northeast of Tel Aviv.

England Fears Black Mart Deals

LONDON, July 20—Scotland Yard posted special men today at Olympics camps to combat feared black market dealings in food brought to England by foreign competitors.

Those subjects, he reiterated, will be all that are to be considered when the house and senate are called to order at 1:30 p. m. (EST) Thursday.

The solons will be asked to provide some $5.5 million to the welfare department. Of this sum, about $4 million will be to enable the state to match local relief funds to the full 50 percent authorized by law for the remainder of the year. Under the present allotments the matching has slipped to about 29 percent.

In addition, they will be asked to furnish $1,200,000 more needed to meet the grocery bill for the state's institutions and $300,000

Indications are that Radical Socialist candidates, such as Justice Minister Andre Marie, will be given first opportunity to formulate a cabinet.

THE FRENCH People's Rally, which supports the former provisional president, Charles de Gaulle, meanwhile pressed a bid to return the famed wartime leader to power.

A national conference of De Gaulle's meeting in Paris is preparing to capitalize on difficulties underlining the incapacity of the present national assembly to govern.

Observers see the possibility, however, that the People's Rally may modify its demands for immediate elections by asking instead the forming of a "national unity cabinet" under De Gaulle's leadership some time in September.

Barkley observed that it was such opportunities that make "democracy worth fighting for and worth living for in this great America of ours."

Clay Denies Plans For Big Convoy

Reds Make Offer To Feed Berlin

BERLIN, July 20—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today that "I have not heard" of the reported plan to break the Soviet "starvation siege" of Berlin by pushing through an armed Western Allied truck convoy.

The United States commander in Germany added that, even if such a plan were made, "I could not speak about it" since it would be a matter for decision on the highest governmental level.

Clay also expressed skepticism of the Soviet offer to supply all the people of Berlin, including the inhabitants of the three beleaguered Western Allied sectors, with food on a "come and get it basis."

He said that the test of the Russian offer "lies in performance and not in promises."

OBSERVERS interpreted the Soviet food announcement as a vast propaganda maneuver.

The Russians said they are shipping 100 thousand tons of foodstuffs to supply the 2,500,000 German residents of the American, British and French sectors.

But the recipients must enter the Soviet zone, where they will be allowed to purchase their ration card allowances—but the transactions must be in Russian reichsmarks.

Western Europe Nations Ponder East-West Strife

THE HAGUE, July 20—Foreign ministers of the five power Western European Union prepared to extend their talks on joint defense plans today in the face of growing East-West tension.

The ministers reportedly discussed the possibility of all North Atlantic defense bloc, in which Canada and the United States might participate, at their first meeting yesterday.

Both Western hemisphere states are engaged in defense discussions with the five nations in Washington.

French Foreign Minister Bidault reportedly conferred on the issue with British Foreign Secretary Bevin at dinner last night.

CIVIL RIGHTS ISSUE TO BE PUSHED

Solon Asks Truman To Tell Nation Of Russian Situation

WASHINGTON, July 20—Sen. McClellan, (D) Ark., called on President Truman today to "tell us the truth about the Russian situation" in his first message to the special session of Congress opening next Monday.

The Dixie Democratic senator declared that only the foreign relations threat could justify the July 26 special session call.

Asserting that domestic problems do not justify the special session, McClellan declared: "What I would like to know is the truth about our foreign problems."

"I believe the President should tell in his first message to Congress just what is the real situation in respect to Russia."

"That is what the American people—whose sons will be drafted—want to know and need to know. President Truman is the responsible one and the proper one to tell us."

Meanwhile President Truman planned to push his program for civil rights legislation to the utmost at the special session.

The chief executive is expected to remind Capitol Hill in firm terms that civil rights legislation submitted last Winter, is still in the hopper and remains only to be brought out for action.

Presidential intimates indicated today that Mr. Truman has not the slightest intention of receding one bit from the strong civil rights recommendations he made to Congress in a special message early last Winter.

This has been made clear in the face of the Southern revolt, which reached its climax at the Philadelphia convention, followed by the rump convention of revolting Southerners in Birmingham.

Sources close to the President said reports that he might "back down" to some extent on his recommendations in order to win back some Southern support are entirely incorrect.

They represented Mr. Truman as being insistent that consideration be given his civil rights recommendations regardless of whether the Solid South support of the Democratic Party is broken in November.

Council Expected To Air New Hike In Electric Rate

A reaction in Circleville city council is expected Tuesday night to the 4.4 percent rate hike announced Monday by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for consumers in this area.

The increase in surcharge will affect the city light bill as well as that of private users and councilmen who already are harassed by increasing city costs may elect to raise a voice of disapproval.

The surcharge will hit Circleville and 66 other centers served by the electric company. It is to go into effect Aug. 16, light company officials announced.

However, whether Circleville city councilmen will fall in line with the Columbus city council in an attempt to block the raise probably will be decided in the city hall chamber Tuesday night.

Sticky Weather Expected To Hold Until Friday

Hot, sticky weather continued to hover over Ohio Tuesday with little relief in sight before Friday.

Partly cloudy, warm and humid Tuesday and Wednesday was the official U. S. Weather Bureau forecast. Scattered and brief showers or thunderstorms were predicted for Wednesday evening in some portions of the state.

Temperatures were expected to range high, combining with the humidity to make for most uncomfortable conditions.

The official five-day forecast follows: "Temperatures will average about normal to three degrees above normal in the west. Normal maximum 80 to 85 degrees, normal minimum 62-64. Rather warm and humid through Friday, turning cooler Saturday and Sunday. Precipitation variable, averaging one-fourth to three-fourths inches occurring as scattered thundershowers at frequent intervals."

Scattered thundershowers fell in some parts of Ohio Monday but did little to alleviate the current dry spell. Forecasters said there was little likelihood of a break in the near-drought within the next few days.

favorable rate in a new contract.

Capitol City solons said the hike is "merely a subterfuge to get themselves in better position to fight us" when their present five-year electric rate is renegotiated next year.

But while Columbus legislators have until September of 1949 to debate the proposed new contract, Circleville must be ready to open negotiations for an electric contract in December of this year.

City Auditor Lillian Young said the present Circleville contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Light Co., covering the city sewage disposal plant, expires next December.

It will then be up to city council to accept or reject any proposed increases. The contract (Continued on Page Two)

Local Guard Unit Cut To 65 Men

Company I, 166th Infantry, Circleville's National Guard unit, has been reduced from a previous full strength of 188 men to 65 by orders from national headquarters.

Capt. Jack Clifton, commander of the unit, said Tuesday he had weeded out 19 men from the ranks recently and now had a strength of 55 men and three officers.

The local unit will accept 10 more men into the ranks before Aug. 15.

The Aug. 15 date is the start of a 15-day training period at Camp Atterbury, Ind., for the Circleville unit. Clifton said he expected to have full strength by that date. He said also he expected to have a 100 percent turnout for the trip to Atterbury.

25-Year-Olds Due For First Signup

WASHINGTON, July 20—President Truman today ordered peacetime draft registration of young men aged 18 through 25 to be conducted during the period beginning Aug. 30 and ending Sept. 18, inclusive.

Mr. Truman issued an executive proclamation under the Selective Service Law, placing the draft machinery in motion.

Selective Service officials said registration will be handled by some 4,000 local draft boards set up throughout the country under World War II precedents.

State draft officials and local boards are appointed by the governors of the 48 states, with the President's approval.

Registration places will be arranged by the local boards, and the boards will handle registration machinery in their respective areas.

REGISTRATION will depend upon the date of birth of the prospective draftee. Persons born in 1922 after Aug. 30, must register on Monday, Aug. 30. Those born in 1923 will register on Aug. 31, Tuesday, or on Sept. 1, Wednesday.

Those born in 1924 will register on Thursday, Sept. 2 or Friday, Sept. 3.

Persons born in 1925 will register on Saturday, Sept. 4, or Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Wallaceites Open Pre-Convention Meet In Philly

PHILADELPHIA, July 20—Henry A. Wallace's Third Party opened its pre-convention activities here today with a meeting of its 74-member platform committee.

Only about 30 members were present when the executive session was called to order.

Rexford G. Tutwell, processor of political science at the University of Chicago and one of the original New Deal "brain-trusters," acted as provisional chairman.

Before the meeting got under way behind closed doors, Tutwell said organizational matters and certain phases of the proposed platform were to be discussed.

Open hearings on platform recommendations are to be held tomorrow and Thursday, and the convention proper will be formally opened at 7:30 p. m. Friday and last through Sunday.

The pre-convention activities of the Wallace Party were much quieter than the recent hullabaloo of the Republican and Democratic parties.

On the marquee of the Bellevue-Stratford were colored revolving signs reading, "Peace," "Abundance" and "Freedom." There was no animal, such as the inflated Republican elephant and the nodding, electric-eyed Democratic donkey.

"New Party" signs were plastered around various floors, however, and there were indications that things would live up in a day or two.

1928 births register Monday, Sept. 13, and Tuesday, Sept. 14.
1929 births register Wednesday, Sept. 15, and Thursday, Sept. 16.
1930 births before Sept. 19, 1930, register on Friday, Sept. 17, and Saturday, Sept. 18.
Persons born on or after Sept. 19, 1930, must register the day they attain their 18th birthday, or within five days thereafter.

The Selective Service registration order applies to every male citizen in these age groups residing in the United States or any of its territories or possessions.

The President called upon employers and heads of government agencies to release their employees from work at the times required for their registrations.

Maj.-Gen. Louis B. Hershey sworn in for the second time as director of Selective Service, will submit a set of rules and regulations to President Truman covering inductions and deferments under the law.

Service headquarters did not know when the rules would be published by the White House.

The regulations are expected to follow the pattern laid down by Congress in the draft law.

There was doubt as to what age groups in the overall 19 through 25 category eligible for induction would be called up first.

Hershey indicated that the Army and the armed services committees of Congress probably favored calling up men of 25 first.

SELECTIVE Service officials expected that the new draft will cause another rush to the altar so that young men will be married and can claim dependents before they are called up for induction just as they did in 1940 and 1941.

The law gives the President power to defer men with dependents.

Also eligible for deferment are students in high school who have not reached the age of 20, and college students. High school students under 20, if called up, may be deferred until after they graduate.

College students called up may be deferred until the end of their academic year, and if they are in their last two years of their ROTC training they will not be drafted.

The academic year provision will exempt men planning to enter college classes this Fall, because no one can be inducted before Sept. 22. By that time most college sessions will have started.

Selective Service headquarters emphasized however that all men between the ages of 18 and 25 must register and a spokesman said regarding peacetime deferments, "in an emergency all bets are off."

The draft law authorizes the President—through local draft boards—to exempt men "whose employment, or whose activity culture or other occupations or employment, or whose activity in study, research or medical, scientific or other endeavors is found to be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest."

The law also exempts veterans who served at least 12 months between Sept. 16, 1940 and June 22, 1948, or who served 90 days or more between Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945.

Idaho Mine Catches Fire
HAILEY, Ida., July 20—A raging fire in the Triumph lead and zinc mine near here was reported still out of control today.

Some 30 men escaped injury last night when flames broke out in the 20-year-old mine, 75 miles north of Twin Falls.

Mine officials telephoned Twin Falls firemen for gas masks to use in battling the flames.

Irwin Named
COLUMBUS, July 20—Col. William R. Irwin, formerly stationed at Puerto Rico, took over command of the Ohio military district with headquarters at Ft. Hayes, today. He succeeds Col. John E. McMahon Jr. who was transferred to Oakland, Cal.

Yanks Awaiting Egypt's Reply

WASHINGTON, July 20—A reply was awaited today to the "stern representations" made by the State department to the Egyptian government over the fatal stoning of an American citizen in Cairo Sunday afternoon.

The victim was identified as Stephen Haas, real estate dealer of Philadelphia, a naturalized citizen of Hungarian birth about 50 years old.

Cleanup Plea

COLUMBUS, July 20—Among the pleas made to Governor Herbert today to expand his call for a special session of the legislature was a letter asking that the sales tax be removed from all soaps, cleaners, and soap powders "because the Bible says cleanliness is next to godliness."

Radical Socialists Seen Taking Over In France

agreeable to having an interim transition cabinet under leadership of the so-called "Third Force" coalition of Socialists, Radical Socialists and Popular Republicans.

Parliamentary observers consider the government crisis was motivated by both foreign policy measures and domestic questions, with the latter concerned chiefly with Socialist eagerness to oppose a return of De Gaulle to power in the October departmental elections.

The Socialists, who principally are responsible for the crisis, generally seem convinced that the situation will result in their return to leadership.

If such should be the case, parliamentarians believe that Finance Minister Jules Moch is a likely candidate for the premiership.

THE CABINET quit when a Socialist-led rebellion in the national assembly pushed through an amendment to cut the military budget by a vote of 297 to 214.

Schuman previously informed the assembly he would resign if the amendment slashing the budget was voted and had no alternative but to relinquish the post when the balloting was announced.

The assembly voted to cut the budget by 12 billion francs ($39 million). Schuman was unwilling to go beyond a slash of 8.5 billion francs.

Although the amendment was sponsored by the Socialists, observers attributed the fall of the Schuman regime to followers of De Gaulle.

They abstained from voting on the amendment, allowing the Socialists, with Communist backing, to carry it through.

Some rural homes East of Circleville were without electricity Tuesday morning when a high tension power line on Lovers Lane was snapped by a limb which fell on the line.

While no damage other than the wire replacement was reported, the incident brought up a unique story.

Don Valentine, salesman for Blue Ribbon Dairy, was driving his horse-drawn delivery wagon near the wire when it popped.

Valentine said he heard the wire snap, and it was fairly close to him when it landed.

It was recalled that John Anderson, then an employee of the dairy on the same route, had been driving over the same territory about a year and a half ago when a line snapped in nearly the same place. The live wire killed the horse which was drawing the cart.

In Tuesday's case, however, Valentine's steed was not injured.

Sales Tax Aide Claims Vendors Lack Interest

State Tax Examiner R. Gregg will be in the Pickaway County treasurer's office through Wednesday to assist vendors in filling out semi-annual sales tax reports.

County businessmen seeking help in filing the January through June sales tax report are advised to bring with them records of gross and exempt sales, stamp purchases, records of sales tax charged and collected, and inventories of unused stamps on hand at beginning and close of period.

Gregg said Tuesday "very few" had contacted him up until now and warned that Wednesday will be his last day in Pickaway County.

Vendors have until July 31 to file their reports with the state, Gregg said. After that date, late-comers are subject to a $1 fine.

One Is Missing As Boat Blows

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20—Three persons were rescued early today and a fourth is missing after the 30-foot cabin cruiser "Salty" blew up in San Francisco bay.

The explosion occurred a mile offshore, about a half hour before midnight. It blew all four occupants of the $10,000 craft into the water and started a fire which reduced the cruiser to a hulk.

Power Rate Airing Ahead

covering the city in general expires in 1957.

Legally the electric company has a right to raise its rates in any calendar year if the unit expense to the utility per kilowatt hour is greater than unit expense for the contract year by as much as five percent.

However, Columbus lawmak-ers apparently feel the rate hike is unwarranted and that the electric company is using this method to cover its real intention of bettering its contract for next year.

Circleville city councilmen probably will air the utility firm's announcement in Tuesday's meeting in an effort to acquaint themselves with the new move by the utility.

Mr. Bowers was born Feb. 10, 1874 in Circleville to George Bowers and Christina Palm.

Clay Denies Plans For Big Convoy

restriction banned Allied motor traffic westward out of Berlin. Ten American cars were turned back at the Soviet checkpoint of Marienborn.

Previous Russian restrictions have been directed against travel eastward into Berlin from the west.

This threw the whole East-West dispute in Berlin back to one of its fundamentals.

Early in June, the Western Allies announced a program for currency reforms which first called for nullification of the old German Reichsmarks.

THE SOVIETS immediately banned passenger traffic from the west and began their long series of travel restrictions and vigorous inspections, allegedly to keep these discarded notes from flowing into the eastern sectors for use in black market dealings.

On June 22, a Big Four meeting was held in Berlin at which the Soviets demanded that all Berlin currency be issued in the name of the Soviet Union.

The Allies refused to accede to this and Russian Marshal Vasily Sokolovsky decreed immediate currency reform for the Soviet zone of Germany, including all Berlin.

Clay countered the next day by issuing the new American-backed Deutschemark in the western sectors, confiscating all the old currency and declining to recognize the Russian mark.

To take advantage of the Soviet food offer, Germans in the western zones would have to find some way of obtaining the Russian marks.

Clay announced that despite the Russian move, the Allies would continue to shuttle food and other essentials into Western Berlin by air.

Army announcement of the Russian action to ban outgoing Allied autobahn travel came shortly after the Soviets proclaimed that they are shipping 100 thousand tons of foodstuffs from Russia to supply all of Berlin.

This dramatically uncoiled Soviet announcement was seen as an obvious attempt to stem antagonism aroused among Berliners by the Soviet economic blockade and to strengthen the Russian claim that Berlin is within the Soviet eastern occupation zone and must be incorporated in the Russian economy.

Youthful Burglar Gets Stiff Term In Court Here

Corbin Justice, 17, of Circleville Route 3, Monday was placed on probation until he is 21 after confessing to the burglary of Stevenson Bros. filling station on Route 22 east of town.

The youth was brought before Judge Sterling M. Lamb in Pickaway County juvenile court to hear sentence for breaking into the station on June 29.

Judge Lamb took no exception to the severity of Justice's meanderings for he also fined the boy $25 and costs, ordered him to make restitution for all damage and goods stolen and passed a suspended sentence in the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

Justice was arrested last Friday by Deputy Vern L. Pontious after tracing the boy through discarded paper cigar bands which he had passed out to neighboring farmers, the deputy reported.

FINEST ACTING REQUIRED

Average Voter May Get Break In Special Session

WASHINGTON, July 20—This one the nation wants to see through. This is history. This is drama of a sort which will bring out the finest acting in the boys.

Through the medium of the old political change of pace and fast cross-and-double cross, this is a situation which might actually give the average voter a break.

Already hearts are breaking all over Washington. Walls of anguish have been emanating from Capitol Hill, interspersed with roaring cries of rage and fury.

The Eightieth Congress has been called back in special session to, as the saying goes, put up or shut up—and the boys are acting like they didn't know this marble game was for keeps.

It takes no raving genius to note that the President's move not only angered the Republicans, but also frightened the m. And, if you gaze a bit deeper into the situation, it can be seen that many members of the President's own party are more than slightly upset by Mr. Truman's surprise move.

After all, not in nearly a hundred years has such a situation developed. It is easy to see why it has not been considered politically wise to have Congress in session between convention time and election time in these years divisible by four.

IF THE LIGHT is not burning in the capitol dome, those congressmen running for reelection can bound from platform to platform about their bailiwicks, promising the people to pass almost any kind of legislation desired in that particular locality.

The theory is that if the boys fail to keep their promises several months later when Congress reconvenes, the people already will have forgotten—or at least their memories will not last until the next election. Of course, if worst comes to worst, the solons can always say that conditions changed greatly during the period after they made their campaign promises.

But unfortunately, short as it is, the public memory is long enough to last between July and November—and domestic conditions can hardly undergo any drastic transformations between the time a congressman makes a promise-laden weekend speech back home and the time the legislation in question comes up for action the next week!

Under the circumstances, the boys may well have to quit promising so much or else start doing more—or not get elected.

Partywise, this congressional recall is considered particularly bad, from a political point of view. Both national platforms already have been constructed and presented to the people, but it is safe to say that neither party expected immediately to have to start transforming platforms into legislation.

Carefully they sought out the national sore spots on every subject from housing to civil rights, and then they contested to see who could promise the people the most in those situations.

Now, a mere matter of weeks after those sometimes wild promises were made, the people are going to get the chance to watch and see how the two parties stick by their promises.

NEEDLESS to say, had the leaders of either party suspected that this might happen, many a platform plank which now looms strong and sturdy would have been whittled down to a mere splinter!

All in all, it is rather surprising, however, that the President's plans were not at least suspected. Politically speaking, it's the perfect move for him. After all, a President must continue to administer, even during campaigns, and therefore remains on the spot while the recessed congressmen do not have to legislate and thus can take cover and operate from the shadows.

This way they must share the spotlight—and in election years, that can be a hot spot!

March Wedding Heads For Rocks In Court Here

Petition to end a four-month-old marriage is one of two divorce suits now on file in Pickaway County common pleas court.

Nettie M. Henderson's petition accuses her husband, Elsworth Henderson of extreme cruelty and failure to provide since they were married last March 4 in Circleville.

While the couple has no children, Mrs. Henderson's action claims the defendant has "an ungovernable temper" and on occasions he struck her.

She is asking the court for alimony and to be restored to her former name of Nettie M. Crable. In the second divorce action, Iva Louise Webb is suing her husband on grounds of gross neglect.

THE 20-YEAR-OLD bride's petition states she married Ralph J. Webb on June 2, 1947 in Circleville and that they have one child.

He is accused of failing to provide a home and support for his wife and child. He is further accused of living with her in intentions of living with her.

Mrs. Webb is asking the court for custody of the child and financial relief.

War Widow Turns Suicide

DELAWARE, July 20—A 24-year-old war widow who shot herself in a fit of despondency over the return of the body of her soldier-husband was to have her last wish fulfilled today.

She was to be buried with her husband. Delaware police reported that the woman, Mrs. Janis Marie Roszman, shot herself through the heart with a .32 caliber revolver. Her husband, Sgt. Jarvis Roszman, 25, was killed in action in France Jan. 16, 1945, and was being returned to Delaware for burial.

His body arrived at the Columbus distribution depot just a few hours before his wife's death.

Ag Chieftains Pick Up Special Magical 'Fountain Of Youth'

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., July 20—Scientifically cold "show me" representatives of the U. S. Department of Pure Food and Drugs have called on Farmer John C. Brown.

They came to visit the 61-year-old farmer-pharmacist to pick up a cement matrix and carry it back to the laboratory for scientific investigation.

Within each matrix is the "fountain of youth" master cell with claimed magical powers to prolong life and increase the size, quantity and nutritional value of all plant and animal life.

Farmer Brown, besieged by callers who seek cures for their ailments, modestly admits his master cell contains the secret of life and will increase man's natural life-span from the accepted 70 years to 120, a bonus of more than 50 percent.

THE INVENTOR describes his discovery as:

"It's not a chemical, not a drug, not a narcotic."

"It's a simple man's miracle and belongs to the people."

And to the believers who call on his farm for medical aid, Brown tells them:

"I can't help you. I am no doctor. I have no right to cure you."

Brown explains that the health-giving properties of his discovery will reach mankind through the digestive tract—if people will eat plant and animal products in which disease and poison have been eliminated by the master cell.

Farmer Brown has decided that his cells will be distributed at first only to other tillers of the soil.

He and a group of long-time associates have a non-profit corporation headed by himself and Gustav Goerner, for 35 years Boston manager for E. I. DuPont de Nemours.

One of the associates, John Caboeiras, said doctors gave him up to die two years ago. He said he is still alive because he has been drinking water treated by the master cell.

The cell, Farmer Brown says, eliminates all need for such plant disease treatments as formaldehyde, arsenic, nicotine and mercury, since it kills off all vegetative ailments.

Another farmer swears his old pullets now look like youngsters and act just as giddy. Crops

CLEVELAND, July 20—Edith L. Lewallen, 16-year-old suburban Berea high school student, was in serious condition today in Berea Community hospital after falling 125 feet into the Rocky river from a cliff.

The girl had gone with other members of a church group on a swimming party to the river yesterday. The girls in the group said Edith had climbed over a fence near the edge of the cliff and fell down the nearly perpendicular side of the cliff into the river.

She was unconscious for several hours after her arrival at the hospital.

Average Voter May Get Break In Special Session

WASHINGTON, July 20—This one the nation wants to see through. This is history. This is drama of a sort which will bring out the finest acting in the boys.

Through the medium of the old political change of pace and fast cross-and-double cross, this is a situation which might actually give the average voter a break.

Already hearts are breaking all over Washington. Walls of anguish have been emanating from Capitol Hill, interspersed with roaring cries of rage and fury.

The Eightieth Congress has been called back in special session to, as the saying goes, put up or shut up—and the boys are acting like they didn't know this marble game was for keeps.

It takes no raving genius to note that the President's move not only angered the Republicans, but also frightened them. And, if you gaze a bit deeper into the situation, it can be seen that many members of the President's own party are more than slightly upset by Mr. Truman's surprise move.

After all, not in nearly a hundred years has such a situation developed. It is easy to see why it has not been considered politically wise to have Congress in session between convention time and election time in these years divisible by four.

IF THE LIGHT is not burning in the capitol dome, those congressmen running for reelection can bound from platform to platform about their bailiwicks, promising the people to pass almost any kind of legislation desired in that particular locality.

The theory is that if the boys fail to keep their promises several months later when Congress reconvenes, the people are a day will have forgotten—or at least their memories will not last until the next election. Of course, if worst comes to worst, the solons can always say that conditions changed greatly during the period after they made their campaign promises.

But unfortunately, short as it is, the public memory is long enough to last between July and November—and domestic conditions can hardly undergo any drastic transformations between the time a congressman makes a promise-laden weekend speech back home and the time the legislation in question comes up for action the next week!

Under the circumstances, the boys may well have to quit promising so much or else start doing more—or not get elected.

Partywise, this congressional recall is considered particularly ly bad, from a political point of view. Both national platforms already have been constructed and presented to the people, but it is safe to say that neither party expected immediately to have to start transforming platforms into legislation.

Carefully they sought out the national sore spots on every subject from housing to civil rights, and then they contested to see who could promise the people the most in those situations.

Now, a mere matter of weeks after those sometimes wild promises were made, the people are going to get the chance to watch and see how the two parties stick by their promises.

NEEDLESS to say, had the leaders of either party suspected that this might happen, many a platform plank which now looms strong and sturdy would have been whittled down to a mere splinter!

All in all, it is rather surprising, however, that the President's plans were not at least suspected. Politically speaking, it's the perfect move for him. After all, a President must continue to administer, even during campaigns, and therefore remains on the spot while the recessed congressmen do not have to legislate and thus can take cover and operate from the shadows.

This way they must share the spotlight—and in election years, that can be a hot spot!

March Wedding Heads For Rocks In Court Here

Petition to end a four-month-old marriage is one of two divorce suits now on file in Pickaway County common pleas court.

Nettie M. Henderson's petition accuses her husband, Elsworth Henderson of extreme cruelty and failure to provide since they were married last March 4 in Circleville.

While the couple has no children, Mrs. Henderson's action claims the defendant has "an ungovernable temper" and on occasions he struck her.

She is asking the court for alimony and to be restored to her former name of Nettie M. Crable. In the second divorce action, Iva Louise Webb is suing her husband on grounds of gross neglect.

THE 20-YEAR-OLD bride's petition states she married Ralph J. Webb on June 2, 1947 in Circleville and that they have one child.

He is accused of failing to provide a home and support for his wife and child. He is further accused of stating he had no intentions of living with her.

Mrs. Webb is asking the court for custody of the child and financial relief.

War Widow Turns Suicide

DELAWARE, July 20—A 24-year-old war widow who shot herself in a fit of despondency over the return of the body of her soldier-husband was to have her last wish fulfilled today.

She was to be buried with her husband.

Delaware police reported that the woman, Mrs. Janis Marie Roszman, shot herself through the heart with a .32 caliber revolver. Her husband, Sgt. Jarvis Roszman, 25, was killed in action in France Jan. 16, 1945, and was being returned to Delaware for burial.

His body arrived at the Columbus distribution depot just a few hours before his wife's death.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

SOCIALIZED medicine, which has been a controversial subject in Great Britain for years, is about to be put to the test under the government's new scheme for free health service.

The lack of buildings and of professional personnel with which to carry out the project does not act as a deterrent to Aneurin Bevan, minister of health. Doctors and dentists are battling the issue on the basis of terms of compensation and professional freedom.

The plan is that anyone who is ill may apply for and receive medical care free of charge. Such service will be paid for by taxation, and opponents argue it will prove to be very expensive.

"Socialized" does not mean "free." Nothing is free. The hand which would take money from a pocket to pay the doctor will take it from the same pocket to pay taxes for support of the health service. The hope of benefit from such a service is that it will enable a greater number of persons to have adequate medical care, and so improve the health of the nation.

OLD AND MODERN

MODERN furniture designers have modified chairs and tables to harmonize with streamlined homes. But they can't improve much on the comfort and practicality of many pieces of household equipment used long ago.

Pictorial records show the ancient Greeks and Egyptians relaxing on chairs much like the chaise longue. The middle ages had folding seats, swivel chairs and swing-back benches. Can modern craftsmen do any better than the break-fronts of 200 years ago that had everything from book shelves and pigeon holes to secret compartments?

Like their predecessors, twentieth century furniture artists have had to create what was both pleasing to the eye and of use to a household. Some of the newest curves and twists seen in furniture shops today probably would have startled the ancient Greeks. Yet there has been little basic difference through the ages.

Even in furniture design there is little that is really new under the sun.

This is a time of year when foolish people undertake to ignore tempera ture and learn that they themselves will not be ignored by Old Sol.

Favorite Summer sport of the weather people seems to be forecasting: "No immediate relief."

These Days

George E. Sokolsky's

John Ringling North should be elected permanent master of ceremonies of the Republican and Democratic conventions. That would, at any rate, assure a professional touch to the clowning; it would keep the bands playing in tune and time; it would synchronize the program so that it began and ended according to schedule and its numbers would finish on a split second. Circuses should be run by circus men, and these national conventions have degenerated into circuses, designed not to transact important business in an orderly manner but to make noise, create furore, puff up the ego of trivial personalities and to give adults an opportunity to revert to the fun of their childhood.

Fun is fun and nobody can object to a goodly dose of it. But these two parties met at a serious moment in the history of their country, in the face of a crisis in Europe, to decide on their principles and to choose four men, two of whom must, by the course of events, be President and vice-president of the United States during the next four years. This is important business—so far as most Americans are concerned, probably the most important business that can be transacted in this country this year.

Except as the Jews fought for Israeli resolutions and the Southerners fought against the revolution in their society, neither convention, on the floor, produced a serious approach to any of the problems that face this country or the world today. The leading speeches were tawdry in both conventions and it would take considerable study to discover the worst one. The best, of course, was that delivered by Herbert Hoover, which was of the heart. My own reaction—perhaps premature—to the worst was that of Sam Rayburn, although President Truman comes in for consideration, as his so-called "off-the-cuff" act lacked dignity, stature and a sense of fitness of the occasion.

This business of bringing in acts from the cellar of the convention hall to stir up demonstrations is time-wasting and a bore. The first time one sees and hears it, the novelty has some appeal. As soon, however, as it is discovered that it is all prearranged, that the delegates are only a side-show, that many of the participants are hired mummies—then the whole business has to be compared with Mr. North's output at the Barnum and Bailey circus.

Why should not both parties spend the next four years studying these meetings and reaching an agreement on how to make the conventions dignified, decently conducted conclaves of their parties engaged in their most serious business? It probably would be necessary to cut the delegations and to reduce the number of spectators. Otherwise, sooner or later, a convention will consist of reporters, columnists, radio commentators, photographers, television technicians and electricians.

As it stands, these conventions are an insult to those who attend them and to the voter who hears and watches them on radio and television.

Gen. Eisenhower stands in danger of being remembered not as a great military leader but as the man who kept saying "No."

VARY BIDDING TACTICS

YOU ARE BOUND to have three kinds of partners, fine, average and bad. And you should have somewhat different bidding tactics opposite each type, summarized about thus: 1. With the top rank mate, give him every chance you can to exercise his judgment among as many different options as possible; 2. With the medium partner, bid the most likely game contract yourself without enhancing his mistake, if you feel pretty sure there should be a game in a certain declaration; 3. With the very weak partner, even give some thought to striving to become the declarer yourself, so he won't misplay the hand. But don't go too far with any of these policies. They are useful, though, in close situations.

Seldom will you find a more terrible pass than South's, when he left North in that 3-Diamonds monstrosity of a contract. A very inferior player, he had been told that misfits are dangerous, and because of that passed, leaving his poor partner to get his head beaten off and being down three tricks.

There would have been no job at all to making game in spades. An extra trick could have been scored by the simple expedient of two leads toward the club J, followed by the ruffing of one club, the plays of the club suit of course following the taking out of trumps. That is, if West led anything but a low club, and game would have been sure even then.

North, a supposedly fine player, is the one to be blamed for his side being in the wrong contract. South could be censured by him for not rebidding spades or showing clubs on his second turn. But then North knew South as a mediocre performer who might make such errors. South having made a jump bid in spades on his first turn, showing quite a suit, perhaps a two-suiter, North should have supported with his three cards, preferably at once into 4-Spades after the kind of call his partner had made.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

OGDEN rose stiffly from his chair. "Sit down, son, sit down. It's good to see you. Finally decided to look up your friends, is that it?"

"I seem to be having my first free moment in quite a while," Andrew acknowledged, "and I thought I'd drop by and take Carol to the movies, if she wants to go." "She's not here," Ogden Sayre said with a pleased look. "She's at some girl's house in Brannfield with the crowd."

"What crowd?" "The one your friend Joan has introduced her to." When he saw Andrew's surprised expression, he chuckled. "So she did it without you knowing. She's a mighty nice person, that Joan McClure."

"I know that," Andrew said warmly. "I'll bet you do! Well, seems she had met Carol at some party you took them both to, and she thought the kid looked lonely—the party was mostly older people, she said—so she introduced Carol around to some folks her own age, and now she's having a really good time."

"No more Ralph?" Andrew asked.

Sayre's face darkened momentarily. "Not that I know of," he said. "No, I'm sure she's not seeing him. She's been too natural lately. The way we've always wanted her to be. Working at the filling station has helped, too." He looked over at his young friend. "I'll never be able to thank you and Mer well—adequately—for what you did that night, Delacourt."

Andrew's head shot up. He had become so used to being called Paulson that his own name struck him with a sense of shock. "How did you know that was my name?" he asked now, and did not realize how stern he looked.

"Now, now," Ogden Sayre said smoothly. "That was just a slip of the tongue. I haven't told a soul—not even Millie."

"Yes, but how did you know?" Andrew insisted. "Did you recognize me from pictures in the paper?"

"Of course not. I don't think anybody would. You used to look so sort of limp. Maybe it was the way you combed your hair, or that mustache you wore—I don't know, but nobody'd ever take you for that person."

"Then what was it?" Sayre chuckled. "Your books. Didn't you realize you had your book-plate in every one of them? And I helped you to crate them, remember, when you moved out?"

"Then you've known all this time," Andrew was thoughtful.

"Sure I have, and it's been a joy to watch you grow, son. You've almost changed from day to day. And in the right direction, too. You know, when you wanted me to help finance that development project of yours, it was all I could do to refuse you. I thought, 'That kid has the Delacourt brains, and he's sure to succeed'; but then I thought, too, that it would do you a lot more good if you had to rustle the money for it yourself."

"You were right," Andrew admitted. "And thanks for keeping my secret, sir. I hope it won't have to be a secret very much longer."

It was still light when Andrew got home, but he was in for a further surprise. As he came in the kitchen door, Mrs. Potts looked up to greet him, and Joe was drinking from a saucer of milk under the sink, his ears laid back contentedly.

For a moment, Andrew doubted the evidence of his eyes. Joe, here in the kitchen, as calm as you please! And Emma Potts, not five feet away from him, and apparently unconcerned!

Andrew could not speak. He gestured dumbly toward the cat, and looked at his landlady in inquiry.

"Oh, him?" Mrs. Potts said. "Yes, I guess he's a member of the family now. I still don't like cats, but Joe's different."

Andrew sat down weakly. "Different?"

"You know what he did today? He's been bringing me the mice he catches in the barn and in the fields. Has one or two every day, almost, and I always give him a tidbit for it. After all, I didn't want to discourage him from doing his duty. But today he brought me a mouse with a kink on the end of its tail. Funny-looking thing it was."

Andrew couldn't see that this was any different from the usual procedure, but Emma Potts had not finished. "This afternoon he was back on the steps with another mouse. Only it wasn't another mouse—it was the same one. I knew it by the tail!" She paused and sat back, looking pleased.

Andrew was puzzled. He couldn't see what there was to be pleased about. "Why, the wretch!" he said. "Chiseling like that!"

"Wretch nothing!" Mrs. Potts was indignant. "That cat's bright. Show's he's real New Hampshire folks. So I said to him, 'If you've got that much sense, you might as well eat in the house with the rest of us.' And here he is."

The shrilling of the telephone cut off anything further she might have added, and she went to answer it. Her face, when she turned from the instrument and beckoned to Andrew, was a study. "It's Joan!" she whispered, mouthing the words elaborately. "She wants to talk to you!"

Andrew's heart thumped a little, but his voice was steady when he picked up the receiver. "Andrew?" Joan's voice came to him. Even over the wire, he could sense a certain embarrassment.

"Yes, Joan." "I—I just wanted to find out how the men are working out—the men I sent you."

"They're fine. The old fellow is a little stiff and slow, but he more than makes up for it by being an expert craftsman. The other two are tops."

"That's good." A silence. He could hear her breathing at the other end of the wire. "I wondered how the house was getting along."

"It's moving. I'll soon be putting on that siding Alec was able to get for me."

Another silence. Andrew, grinning a little to himself, waited. "I'd love to see how it's progressing," Joan got the words out with some difficulty.

"Why don't you run over there some evening and take a look at it?" he said, with a carefully off-hand air.

"I had thought you might ask me," she retorted.

"I would have, if I'd dared," he said.

"Why, Andy Paulson," she cried indignantly. "The idea! You know you—!" She broke off, obviously remembering. The resentment in her voice died away, and at last she said meekly, "Aren't you going to ask me?"

"Of course I am. How about tomorrow?"

He came away from the phone with a little secret smile playing around the corners of his mouth. Mrs. Potts took one look at him and said, "My stars!"

But Andrew paid no attention. He was thinking that at last he had hit upon the right technique. When he had pursued Joan with his heart in his eyes, she had been blind to it, seeing only those things which had distressed her—the evidences of his former wealth, the mistakes which came from inexperience in living.

After that night at the Woodfords' he had been too hurt to make the try again—at least, not for a long time, he decided. He had resolved to be friendly, but to take no further steps in pursuit. The trouble was, he concluded, that he rushed her too fast, and a certain natural reserve which was one of her chief attractions had been once affronted. So he had proceeded carefully in his relations with her from that time on, and now—in the contrary fashion of women—it was she who was making the advances. Even her help in getting him workmen had been a sort of propitiatory gesture, he saw now.

But although he maintained his outward calm, he was intensely excited as the next evening approached. He spent so much time over his toilet after supper that Emma Potts had to call up the stairs to him, "It'll be dark in no time, Andy, if you don't hurry up."

NEW YORK—To me it seems entirely unlikely that anyone in his right mind could believe that a celebrity endorsing an advertised product actually USES the product.

The classic example of the farcical side of this facet of American life, of course, is the time when Lou Gehrig went on a radio broadcast to plug a breakfast cereal—and, getting momentarily mixed up, raved about another cereal . . . which was the one he really ate.

Sometimes it is coincidental that the endorsing celebrity actually does use the product, but on the whole I think that the attitude of the common man toward this is, go ahead and sign the testimonial, son. I'd do the same thing if I could make five or ten thousand bucks.

With this practical, or European, approach to the situation established, most souls should look with kindness on the activities of a new organization called the Regent Box Club, which has its headquarters in one of the lifted-pinkie midtown hotels.

Briefly, the club offers to advertisers, for testimonials and endorsements, the services of members of royalty. For example, if you are president of the Coughnot Cigarette company, you can call the Regent people and ask them if they have an old baron or duke who would like to pick up a little ready cash endorsing your coffin-nail.

Of the fee received for the endorsement, 60 per cent goes to the titled endorser. Twenty per cent goes to charity. Remaining 20 per cent goes to the club to cover what it describes as operational costs.

This split of the swag raises something of a delicate problem, because, according to a Regent representative "The committee will make an effort to get the major part, if not ALL of the 60 per cent paid to signees, depending on the wealth of the individual."

THE WHOLE THING LOOKS AT FIRST like a nice way to pick up some extra loot, if you are a somewhat worn-down and shabby

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

SOCIALIZED medicine, which has been a controversial subject in Great Britain for years, is about to be put to the test under the government's new scheme for free health service.

The lack of buildings and of professional personnel with which to carry out the project does not act as a deterrent to Aneurin Bevan, minister of health. Doctors and dentists are battling the issue on the basis of terms of compensation and professional freedom.

The plan is that anyone who is ill may apply for and receive medical care free of charge. Such service will be paid for by taxation, and opponents argue it will prove to be very expensive.

"Socialized" does not mean "free." Nothing is free. The hand which would take money from a pocket to pay the doctor will take it from the same pocket to pay taxes for support of the health service. The hope of benefit from such a service is that it will enable a greater number of persons to have adequate medical care, and so improve the health of the nation.

OLD AND MODERN

MODERN furniture designers have modified chairs and tables to harmonize with streamlined homes. But they can't improve much on the comfort and practicality of many pieces of household equipment used long ago.

Pictorial records show the ancient Greeks and Egyptians relaxing on chairs much like the chaise longue. The middle ages had folding seats, swivel chairs and swing-back benches. Can modern craftsmen do any better than the break-frosts of 200 years ago that had everything from book shelves and pigeon holes to secret compartments?

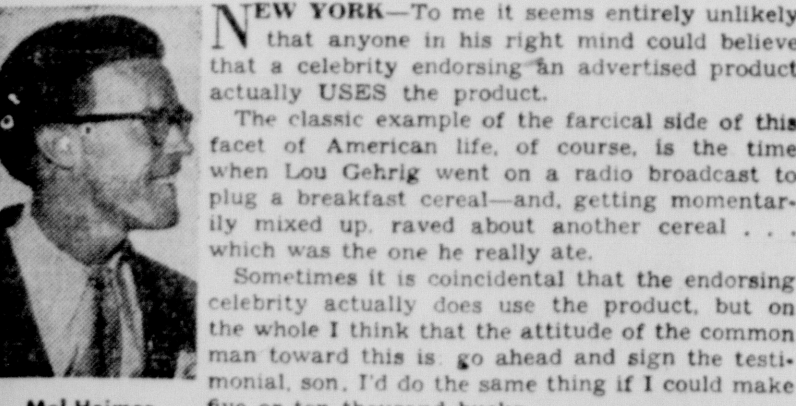

Like their predecessors, twentieth century furniture artists have had to create what was both pleasing to the eye and of use to a household. Some of the newest curves and twists seen in furniture shops today probably would have startled the ancient Greeks. Yet there has been little basic difference through the ages.

Even in furniture design there is little that is really new under the sun.

This is a time of year when foolish people undertake to ignore temperature and learn that they themselves will not be ignored by Old Sol.

Favorite Summer sport of the weather people seems to be forecasting: "No immediate relief."

These Days

George E. Sokolsky

John Ringling North should be elected permanent master of ceremonies of the Republican and Democratic conventions. That would, at any rate, assure a professional touch to the clowning; it would keep the bands playing in tune and time; it would synchronize the program so that it began and ended according to schedule and its numbers would finish on a split second. Circuses should be run by circus men, and these national conventions have degenerated into circuses, designed not to transact important business in an orderly manner but to make noise, create furore, puff up the ego of trivial personalities and to give adults an opportunity to revert to the fun of their childhood.

Fun is fun and nobody can object to a goodly dose of it. But these two parties met at a serious moment in the history of their country, in the face of a crisis in Europe, to decide on their principles and to choose four men, two of whom must, by the course of events, be President and vice-president of the United States during the next four years. This is important business—so far as most Americans are concerned, probably the most important business that can be transacted in this country this year.

Except as the Jews fought for Israeli resolutions and the Southerners fought against the revolution in their society, neither convention, on the floor, produced a serious approach to any of the problems that face this country or the world today. The leading speeches were tawdry in both conventions and it would take considerable study to discover the worst one. The best, of course, was that delivered by Herbert Hoover, which was of the heart. My own reaction—perhaps premature—to the worst was that of Sam Rayburn, although President Truman comes in for consideration, as his so-called "off-the-cuff" act lacked dignity, stature and a sense of fitness of the occasion.

This business of bringing in acts from the cellar of the convention hall to stir up demonstrations is time-wasting and a bore. The first time one sees and hears it, the novelty has some appeal. As soon, however, as it is discovered that it is all prearranged, that the delegates are only a side-show, that many of the participants are hired mummies—then the whole business has to be compared with Mr. North's output at the Barnum and Bailey circus.

Why should not both parties spend the next four years studying these meetings and reaching an agreement on how to make the conventions dignified, decently conducted conclaves of their parties engaged in their most serious business? It probably would be necessary to cut the delegations and to reduce the number of spectators. Otherwise, sooner or later, a convention will consist of reporters, columnists, radio commentators, photographers, television technicians and electricians.

As it stands, these conventions are an insult to those who attend them and to the voter who hears and watches them on radio and television.

Gen. Eisenhower stands in danger of being remembered not as a great military leader but as the man who kept saying "No."

VARY BIDDING TACTICS

YOU ARE BOUND to have three kinds of partners, fine, average and bad. And you should have somewhat different bidding tactics opposite each type, summarized about thus: 1. With the top rank mate, give him every chance you can to exercise his judgment among as many different options as possible. 2. With the medium partner, bid the most likely game contract yourself without enhancing his mistake, if you feel pretty sure there should be a game in a certain declaration; 3. With the very weak partner, even give some thought to striving to become the declarer yourself, so he won't misplay the hand. But don't go too far with any of these policies. They are useful, though, in close situations.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.) West North East South Pass Pass 1 2 3 3

Seldom will you find a more terrible pass than South's, when he left North in that 3-Diamonds monotony of a contract. A very inferior player, he had been told that misfits are dangerous, and because of that passed, leaving his poor partner to get his head beaten off and being down three tricks.

There would have been no job at all to making game in spades. An extra trick could have been scored by the simple expedient of two leads toward the club J, followed by the ruffing of one club, the plays of the club suit of course following the taking out of trumps. That is, if West led anything but a low club, and game would have been sure even then.

North, a supposedly fine player, is the one to be blamed for his side being in the wrong contract. South could be censured by him for not rebidding spades or showing clubs on his second turn. But then North knew South as a mediocre performer who might make such errors. South having made a jump bid in spades on his first turn, showing quite a suit, perhaps a two-suiter, North should have supported with his three cards, preferably at once into 4-Spades after the kind of call his partner had made.

"I seem to be having my first free moment in quite a while," Andrew acknowledged, "and I thought I'd drop by and take Carol to the movies, if she wants to go." "She's not here," Ogden Sayre said with a pleased look. "She's at some girl's house in Branfield with the crowd." "What crowd?" "The one your friend Joan has introduced her to." When he saw Andrew's surprised expression, he chuckled. "So she did it without you knowing. She's a mighty nice person, that Joan McClure." "I know that," Andrew said warmly. "I'll bet you do! Well, seems she had met Carol at some party you took them both to, and she thought the kid looked lonely—the party was mostly older people, she said—so she introduced Carol around to some folks her own age, and now she's having a really good time." Rev. G. L. Troutman Performs Rites

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Hoover of Circleville Route 3 was the setting for the marriage of their granddaughter, Miss Vera Jane Rhoades and Charles Howard Steinhauser on Saturday evening.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. Rhoades, also of Route 3. Her husband is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steinhauser of Clarksburg Route 1.

The Rev. G. L. Troutman, pastor of Circleville Trinity Lutheran church, officiated for the ceremony at 7:30 p. m. before an improvised altar arranged in front of the double windows in the livingroom of the Hoover home. Bouquets of white asters and ferns were used as decorations.

The bride was met at the foot of a long stairway by her father who gave her in marriage. For the occasion she chose to wear a white shirtdress fashion with a ballerina skirt and fitted bodice. Lace edged the full skirt and the round neckline of the blouse. She wore a picture hat of sheer white illusion and carried a bouquet of baby orchids and lily-of-the-valley. Her only jewelry was a gold chain and cross, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Verna Jean Radcliff, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Rebecca Jane Steinhauser, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Miss Radcliff was dressed in aqua crepe and Miss Steinhauser in rose crepe. Both attendants carried bouquets of white gladioli.

Carl Steinhauser of Route 1, Clarksburg, attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Wayne H. Rhoades, Circleville Route 3, brother of the bride, Franklin Mace of Williamsport and Earl Ater of Clarksburg.

A period of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Leon VanVliet of Circleville. She accompanied Wayne Rhoades in a group of vocal selections. During the ceremony, Mrs. VanVliet softly played McDonald's "To A Wild Rose."

Immediately following the ceremony the grandparents were hosts to approximately 70 relatives for a reception in their home.

Refreshments were served from a white lace cloth covered table centered with an arrangement of white asters. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in rosebuds and topped by the traditional miniature bride and groom.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Franklin Mace, Mrs. Paul Thompson, Miss Rosemary Mace, Mrs. Allen Hoover, Mrs. Austin Hoover, Miss Beulah Fausnaugh and Miss Louise Petty.

Mrs. Rhoades chose to wear for her daughter's wedding a gray crepe. Mrs. Steinhauser, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in a flowered Bernberg sheer and Mrs. Hoover wore a gray crepe. Each had corsages of pink and white carnations.

When the new Mr. and Mrs. Steinhauser left for a motor trip to Michigan and Canada, the bride was wearing a brown and white Bernberg sheer and white accessories.

The bride was graduated by Jackson Township high school and was a student of a Columbus dancing school. For the past two years she has been associated with a dancing studio in Circleville.

The bridegroom was graduated by Clarksburg high school.

Miss M. E. Noble Fiancee Of John R. Penn

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Noble of New Holland have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mabel Elizabeth Noble to John Roberts Penn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Penn of Pickaway Township.

The bride-elect was graduated by Frankfort high school and enters Ohio State University this fall in her sophomore year.

Penn was graduated by Pickaway Township high school and now is engaged in operating a farm in Pickaway Township.

Ashville

Mrs. William Wallen is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bond and family at Waukegan, Ill.

Miss Fannie Hook, who has been ill for the past seven months, is reported improving in her home on Long street.

The Ashville - Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the home of E. C. Hafey, Lockbourne. The Rev. Werner Stuck, Hope Church, Columbus, will be the principal speaker.

He attended Ohio State university and served with the Marine Corps for three years during World War II.

He now is postmaster at Clarksburg where the new couple plans to make a home.

Substantial Sum Derived From Benefit Party

Circleville Kindergarten Association received a total of $508.48 from the benefit card party sponsored last week by the association in Recreation Center of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Mrs. Ray W. Davis presided for the Monday evening session in the trustee's room of Memorial hall. Reports from various committees were submitted.

Mrs. Lincoln S. Mader informed the group 27 children have been enrolled for the fall term of the school. It was decided to open the school to any child outside of the city limits.

Miss Marjorie Boman, instructor, reported that First Evangelical United Brethren church would be the site of the school for the coming year.

Mrs. Davis named Mrs. Ned Hitchcock and Mrs. Dick Robinson to investigate a group insurance plan for the kindergarten.

Mrs. Fred Grant was selected as assistant to Mrs. Robert Adkins, treasurer.

Next business meeting of the association will take place July 26 in Memorial hall.

Keep Cool By Acquiring A Cool Look

Everybody is talking about the weather, but you can do something about it, regardless of what the weatherman has to say.

Fashion designers say "by looking cool, you can manage to feel cool." They suggest the best way to achieve that cool look is to accentuate your costume with cool colors.

Fashion designers have a number of tricks up their sleeves to help women look attractively cool on hot, sticky days. They consider color a point to consider carefully. According to their story a monotone color scheme or a basic shade highlighted by one or at the most two harmonious accessory shades helps turn the trick.

Crisp sparkling white adds much to an outfit when the temperatures get out of control. With crisp cottons they suggest white accessories including gloves, handbags and jewelry and add "white shoes are very cool-looking." The best way to achieve the effect of coolness is to avoid costume clutter without any extra frills.

Meet Scheduled

Members of the local Colonel William Ball chapter of Daughters of American Colonists will meet at noon Wednesday in the Virginia hotel, Columbus.

Drakes Host Family Reunion

Twenty-third reunion of the Huffer-Drake families was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Drake and daughter, Miss Mary Ann Drake of the Circleville community.

Mack Drake was elected to serve as president for the coming year. Helen Gardner was named vice-president and Mary Ann Drake secretary-treasurer. The 1949 reunion will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gardner of Westerville.

Among the families totaling 36 persons were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wardlick and children, Mrs. Ida Stebleton and Ersa Drake of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hardisty and daughters and John Doering of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Drake and daughter, June, and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Drake of Commercial Point. Other members of the families were there from Columbus, Westerville, Dublin, and Robtown.

Reconstruction Starts At Scioto Valley Grange

Members of Scioto Valley Grange of Ashville gathered for an all-day session designated as "ground breaking day", to begin the enlarging and improving the present Grange Hall.

At the July 13 meeting, John Dowler, chairman of the hall improvements committee, announced all male members of the Grange would unite to help in the construction. Women of the Grange prepared the noon meal. The master, secretary and treasurer were given the power to sign notes to borrow funds to pay for the work. It was suggested each male member try to contribute 30 hours of labor on the project or to contribute money to hire labor. Trustees were given the right to dispose of the old furnace and kitchen range, as new equipment will be purchased.

A committee was appointed to secure a location for a stand at the Circleville Pumpkin Show to serve food.

Candidates elected into membership of the Grange were Harold Hoover, Marshall Cordray and Lilly Cordray.

Miss Genevieve Alley, Pickaway County home demonstration agent, judged the entries in the homemade bread contest. Prizes were awarded Mrs. C. E. Hafey, Mrs. C. Forshey and Mrs. Frank Hudson. It was announced a blouse contest will take place the first meeting in August.

Literary program under direction of John Dowler consisted of a patriotic quiz. Refreshments were served 67 members.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. George Ankrom and daughter, Nancy and the Misses Betty and Joan Seymour and Paul Ankrom have returned to their homes in Circleville after a vacation spent in Michigan, Canada and the New England states.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Adkins of Braeburn Farm, Al Leggett of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Groom and daughter, Frances of Route 4, and T. B. Lair of East Franklin street attended the Lexington Junior League horse show in Lexington, Ky. over the weekend.

Mrs. Harold Ullom of Pleasant street has returned after spending the past two months with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simpson of Steubenville.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Charles G. Shulze of South Court street for the balance of the week are her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Bream and daughters, Judith and Martha of New York City.

Brad and Joe Schneider, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Charles J. Schneider of South Court street, spent Monday afternoon in Chillicothe. The boys were guests of Jane Story at a party for 20 children arranged on her 6th birthday.

Mrs. Dorothy R. Gerhardt and sons, and Mrs. Leonard Williams and sons of Circleville are visiting with friends in Elkhart, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson and family of Northridge road and Mrs. Earl Maxwell of Columbus went to Cleveland Tuesday to attend funeral services for the late Mrs. Mollie Orr Spence.

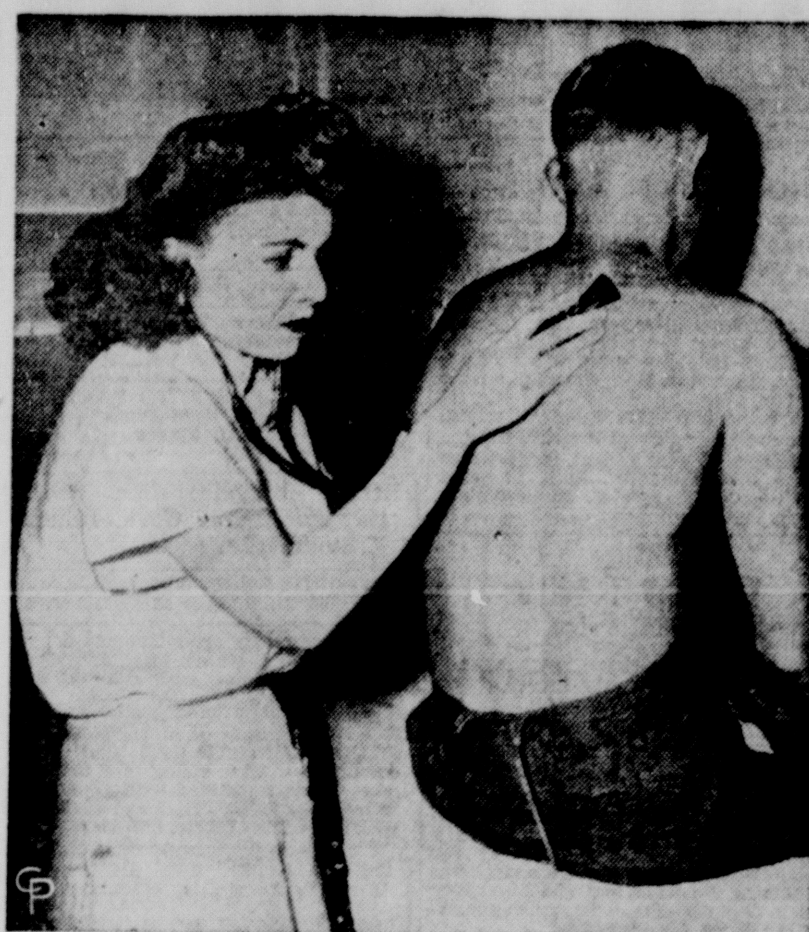

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Davis of Walnut street had for their Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. Owen Beavers and children of Laurelville.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Decker and daughter, Nancy, of Somerville, N. J., are visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Nicholas, in their home on South Pickaway street.

Tinkers Leap Into 3rd Place

Win Over Mumaws Alters Standings

Tinkers softball team jumped from fifth place to a tie for third in Circleville Night Softball League standings Monday night when it registered a 4-2 victory over Mumaws.

In the final week of play in the league, Isalys lead with three wins and one loss while Milliron team is second with two wins and one loss.

Tinks and Boyers are tied for third with two wins and two losses; Mumaws hold fifth with two wins and three losses; and Boyds hold the cellar position with one win and three losses.

Tinks grabbed off an early counter, scoring two runs in the first inning on two singles, a double, a passed ball and an error after having retired the opposition in order in the first of the inning.

In the fifth inning, Mumaws scored its first tally on two walks, a stolen base and an error. Tinks came back in the last of the same inning, however, to post a brace of runs on two singles, a triple and a Mumaw error.

LAST SCORE in the game was made by Mumaws in the first of two stolen bases and a walk were recorded.

Tuesday night the Circleville Kids League "championship" game between Weavers and Spur Oil is to be run off at 7:15 p. m., followed by a regular night league tilt between Boyds and Boyers.

Wednesday's schedule calls for Isalys and Millirons to meet in what may be the league championship game. Isalys to walk away with the crown if it can down Millirons.

Millirons, half game out of first place, will have to defeat Isalys Wednesday and play a postponed game with Tinks Thursday to cop the championship.

A Ted Lewis Park playground kids all-star team holds main attraction on the Thursday exhibition card, the local youngsters to meet the Columbus Right Angle Juniors at 7:30 p. m., preceding the postponed game between Millirons and Tinks.

A donkey softball game between the American Legion and the Booster Club gets the spotlight at the park Friday night, the benefit performance to begin at 8 p. m. Net profits from the exhibition are to go into the park improvement fund.

Saturday night's card calls for Richards to play 740 AC of Columbus, champs in its city league there. The 740 AC club previously visited the city park diamond, handing Isalys a 5-1 defeat two weeks ago.

Asawin Grabs Maywood Feature

CHICAGO, July 20—Asawin captured both ends of the $1,500 Divided 16 Class Pace, the feature on last night's harness racing program at Maywood Park.

Asawin took the fifth race at a mile to beat Cheeky Chief and Rollie McWin in that order and pay $16.20, $5.60 and $3.40, and then won the eighth race to return $5.60, $3.20 and $2.80 in beating Neal Patch and Miss Bert Abbe at 1-1-16 miles.

Bratton Given Bout Decision

CHICAGO, July 20—Johnny Bratton, stepping up into the welterweight class, scored a unanimous decision over Frankie Abrams of Detroit in a 10-round bout last night in Chicago's Marigold Gardens.

The 140-pound Chicago lightweight gave away five pounds in winning his second straight bout since his jaw was fractured last January by Beau Jack.

YOUNG BILL, son of Bill Gallon, Hambletonian winner in 1941, steps along at a lively clip over Good Time track, Goshen, N. Y., as he trains for $60,000 classic to be held there Aug. 11. (International)

'Old Folks' Is Able To Trip Braves

Ostermueller Wins For Bucs, 1-0

NEW YORK, July 20—The problem of who, if anybody, is going to stop the Boston Braves has had rival National League managers baffled for weeks.

Some light finally was thrown on this subject last night when Grandpa Fritz Ostermueller, the veteran southpaw of the Pittsburgh Pirates, beat the pace-setting Braves 1 to 0.

"Old Folks," as Ostermueller is known around the senior circuit, bested no less a performer than Johnny Sain, ace of the Boston pitching staff.

This development was particularly pleasing to the Brooklyn Dodgers whose game with the St. Louis Cardinals was rained out. The second-place Dodgers, the only team which has been able to gain ground on the Braves recently, now trail the Bostonians by 7-1/2 games.

THE CARDINALS, incidentally, were tied for third place by the Pirates. The New York Giants stayed half a game behind the Pirates by walloping Cincinnati, 14 to 2. It was New York's third win in four starts under Leo Durocher, former Brooklyn manager.

Dutch Leonard of the Phillies racked up his 9th win by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4. In the American League, the Detroit Tigers were rained out. The other six clubs, however, went through with their games under the arc lights.

The second-place Athletics advanced to within one game of the pace-setting Cleveland Indians by taking a twilight double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 0 and 6 to 4.

In the first game, Dick Fowler of the A's held the Sox to seven hits and allowed only one Chicagoan to get as far as third base.

Cleveland again proved superior to Washington in an extra-inning game. The Indians had to go 11 frames to nose out the Nats, 7 to 6.

Boston's fourth-place Red Sox climbed to within two games of the third-place Yankees by downing the St. Louis Browns for the third straight time, 4 to 1, on a grand slam homer by Bobby Doerr in the first inning.

Doerr has hit nine homers this month. Mel Parnell held the Browns to six hits in gaining his sixth triumph.

Catcher Gets Odd 'Sentence'

CINCINNATI, July 20—A unique suspension was in effect today for Cincinnati Reds catcher Dewey Williams.

Williams was suspended for five days by National League Prexy Ford Frick for putting his hands on Umpire Frank Dascoli in an argument during a game with the Brooklyn Dodgers last Saturday. He also was fined $100.

However, since the Reds have only one other catcher, Frick ruled that Williams might remain in uniform in the clubhouse and enter the game if Catcher Ray Lamman is injured. Any game in which he catches will not, of course, count as one of the suspended days.

40 Local Lads Answer First Call For Junior Olympics Elimination

About 40 Circleville boys interested in the National Junior Olympics reported at Ted Lewis Park Monday for the first local organizational meeting.

Most important point stressed was that the entrants in the Olympics need not be enrolled in the Kiwanis-sponsored Ted Lewis Park Summer playground program.

All Circleville boys between the ages 10 and 15 years old are eligible for the local elimination which will lead to a county runoff.

Boys who did not report Monday can still be in the race for a berth on the local team, with two practice sessions set for this week.

The first practice will be held at Circleville high school at 5 p. m. Tuesday for lads 14 and 15 years old. Direction will be given by Paul "Snow" Seymour.

THE OTHER practice session is set for the park at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday for boys 10 through 13 years old, with direction by Jim Kirkpatrick.

The Pickaway County Olympic meet is slated for Pickaway Fairgrounds Aug. 4, and qualifiers there will be sent to the National Junior Olympics on Balwin-Wallace college campus Aug. 27 and 28 by the sponsoring organizations.

Tribe, Brewers To Continue Crucial Series

By International News Service
A scant half-game separated the Indianapolis Indians and Milwaukee Brewers today as they headed into the second and final contest of their current American Association series at Milwaukee.

The Brewers crept a full game closer to the pace setting Tribe last night, winning the first game of the series, 11 to 9.

A couple of ex-major leaguers will carry the hopes of the two clubs tonight. Manager Al Lopez of the Tribe has nominated his ace right-hander, Big Jim Bagby.

Nick Cullip, Brewer pilot, will counter with Ed Wright, who pitched for the Boston Braves the last three years.

In a battle for third place in the association, St. Paul smashed Columbus, 12 to 4. The victory left the Apostles only one game behind the Red Birds.

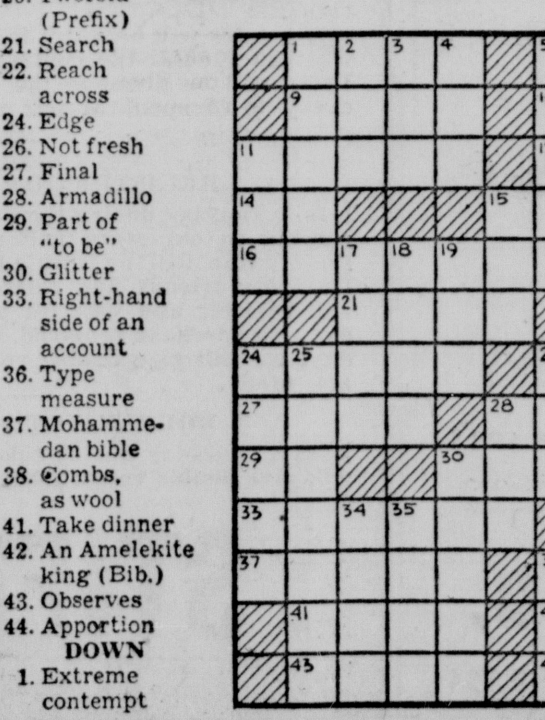

Louisville blasted Minneapolis, 14 to 6. At Kansas City, a double header between the Blues and the Toledo Mud Hens was rained out.

Tinkers Leap Into 3rd Place

Win Over Mumaws Alters Standings

Tinkers softball team jumped from fifth place to a tie for third in Circleville Night Softball League standings Monday night when it registered a 4-2 victory over Mumaws.

In the final week of play in the league, Isalys lead with three wins and one loss while Milliron team is second with two wins and one loss.

Tinkers and Boyers are tied for third with two wins and two losses; Mumaws hold fifth with two wins and three losses; and Boyds hold the cellar position with one win and three losses.

Tinkers grabbed off an early counter, scoring two runs in the first inning on two singles, a double, a passed ball and an error after having retired the opposition in order in the first of the inning.

In the fifth inning, Mumaws scored its first tally on two walks, a stolen base and an error. Tinkers came back in the last of the same inning, however, to post a brace of runs on two singles, a triple and a Mumaw error.

LAST SCORE in the game was made by Mumaws in the first of two stolen bases and a walk were recorded.

Tuesday night the Circleville Kids League "championship" game between Weavers and Spur Oil is to be run off at 7:15 p. m., followed by a regular night league tilt between Boyds and Boyers.

Wednesday's schedule calls for Isalys and Millirons to meet in what may be the league championship game, Isalys to walk away with the crown if it can down Millirons.

Millirons, half game out of first place, will have to defeat Isalys Wednesday and play a postponed game with Tinkers Thursday to cop the championship.

A Ted Lewis Park playground kids all-star team holds main attraction on the Thursday exhibition card, the local youngsters to meet the Columbus Right Angle Juniors at 7:30 p. m., preceding the postponed game between Millirons and Tinkers.

A donkey softball game between the American Legion and the Booster Club gets the spotlight at the park Friday night, the benefit performance to begin at 8 p. m. Net profits from the exhibition are to go into the park improvement fund.

Saturday night's card calls for Richards to play 740 AC of Columbus, champs in its city league there. The 740 AC club previously visited the city park diamond, handing Isalys a 5-1 defeat two weeks ago.

'Old Folks' Is Able To Trip Braves

Ostermueller Wins For Bucs, 1-0

NEW YORK, July 20—The problem of who, if anybody, is going to stop the Boston Braves has had rival, National League managers baffled for weeks.

Some light finally was thrown on this subject last night when Grandpa Fritz Ostermueller, the veteran southpaw of the Pittsburgh Pirates, beat the pace-setting Braves 1 to 0.

"Old Folks," as Ostermueller is known around the senior circuit, bested no less a performer than Johnny Sain, ace of the Boston pitching staff.

This development was particularly pleasing to the Brooklyn Dodgers whose game with the St. Louis Cardinals was rained out. The second-place Dodgers, the only team which has been able to gain ground on the Braves recently, now trail the Bostonians by 7-1/2 games.

THE CARDINALS, incidentally, were tied for third place by the Pirates. The New York Giants stayed half a game behind the Pirates by walloping Cincinnati, 14 to 2. It was New York's third win in four starts under Leo Durocher, former Brooklyn manager.

Dutch Leonard of the Phillies racked up his 9th win by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4. In the American League, the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers were rained out. The other six clubs, however, went through with their games under the arc lights.

The second-place Athletics advanced to within one game of the pace-setting Cleveland Indians by taking a twilight double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 0 and 6 to 4.

In the first game, Dick Fowler of the A's held the Sox to seven hits and allowed only one Chicagoan to get as far as third base.

Cleveland again proved superior to Washington in an extra-inning game. The Indians had to go 11 frames to nose out the Nats, 7 to 6.

Boston's fourth-place Red Sox climbed to within two games of the third-place Yankees by downing the St. Louis Browns for the third straight time, 4 to 1, on a grand slam homer by Bobby Doerr in the first inning. Doerr has hit nine homers this month. Mel Parnell held the Browns to six hits in gaining his sixth triumph.

Tests Show Fertilizer Boosts General Yields Of Wheat

7-9½ Bushel Hike Found In Indiana

Following Crops Also Benefit

Fertilizing wheat paid dividends in crop increases averaging seven to 9½ bushels per acre, Purdue research men have revealed as the result of 1947 studies conducted in 15 Indiana counties.

Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, says the tests reveal that wheat yields increased seven bushels per acre when fertilizer applications averaged from 150 to 200 pounds per acre.

When the plant food treatment was boosted to 300 to 400 pounds per acre, average production gains of 9½ bushels were obtained.

Yields on unfertilized land averaged 22.8 bushels for the demonstrations in the counties.

"Considering current wheat prices and the relatively low cost of fertilizer," Best points out, "these increases paid handsome returns on the wheat alone. Other valuable dividends were reaped on clover and corn crops following the wheat in the rotation."

Demonstrations with wheat started on various soil types last Fall showed somewhat similar results, according to the Purdue research men.

WHEN 165 pounds of 0-12-12 was applied on six Southern Indiana upland soils, increases of five bushels per acre resulted. When the application was doubled, the yield increases averaged seven bushels per acre.

On five sandy loam soils the crop ran out of nitrogen in the Spring of 1947. The full increase was obtained only when the Fall fertilizer applications was supplemented with Spring applied nitrogen.

Four hundred pounds of 0-20-20 at seeding time last Fall, with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate broadcast in April, produced yields averaging 37 bushels per acre, compared to 22.5 for the unfertilized areas. The Fall fertilizer alone made a three bushel per-acre increase.

"Applications of 300 to 350 pounds of 3-12-12 are being recommended for wheat on practically all upland silt or clay loam soils and for sandy loams," says a statement by the Purdue agronomy department.

"If the 3-12-12 cannot be obtained, then 2-12-6 is a good substitute for the wheat crop itself. The additional potash in the 3-12-12, however, is especially important for the clover and corn crops following the small grain."

On the soils and crops farm near LaFayette, applications of 300 pounds of 3-12-12 on wheat have produced an average of 40 bushels per acre for the past nine years. In addition to the plant food treatment, the land is manured regularly for corn which follows clover in the rotation.

Thief Is Found To Be Courteous

COLUMBUS, July 20 — There may not be honor among thieves, but there's at least courtesy.

A hospitable bandit who gave one of his victims a drink—from a newly-stolen bottle—and refused to take their personal belongings or money held up Frater's Grill and escaped with $85 from the cash register.

Night Manager George Chirakis told police the masked bandit forced him and a customer into the back room at gunpoint. He then demanded the "rest of the money." When the two victims turned out their pockets, showing some $20, he told them to keep their money. He then gave Chirakis a drink from a stolen bottle and fled out the back door.

'UNCLE SAM. M. D.' SNUBBED

Socialized Medicine Ills Detailed By Physician

The idea of "Uncle Sam, M. D." was given a definite cold shoulder at Monday evening meeting of Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Meeting at Pickaway County Club, the group heard Dr. H. M. Clodfelter, president of the Columbus Academy of Medicine, detail the physician's case against "compulsory health insurance" or socialized medicine.

Main points stressed by the speaker, who is an official of the Ohio Medical Association, included (a) the process would entail additional governmental red tape in administration, (b) personal and private relation between doctor and patient would be lost, (c) there probably would be five percent deduction of all wages and another five percent matched by each employer, (d) it is not now clear whether a patient would have a choice of attending physicians, (e) health standards would decline, and (f) the plan would breed a crop of care-little, 40-hour-week physicians.

DR. CLODFELTER spoke quietly and avoided any vitriolic attack against arguments of pro-socialized medicine camps.

Instead, he appeared to follow a tack which would give a simple explanation of the proposed legislation and, at the same time, create sufficient doubt to sway listeners to the anti-socialized medicine point of view.

The Columbus physician touched on several of the main points being advanced by proponents of the Murray-Wagner Dingle bill which would provide "womb to tomb" medical care in the United States.

Principal arguments for socialized medicine include the idea that in many rural areas, there are few doctors or none.

Dr. Clodfelter declared that in many of these cases, medical association surveys have shown that a physician actually was not wanted.

Residents did not cooperate with the physician, but, rather, would travel to distant "big cities" where they felt they would receive better attention. In many cases, they were seeing doctors of no higher calibre and doctors who were classmates of the rural physician whom they had abandoned.

Dr. Clodfelter made a main point of the argument that socialized medicine would destroy the private relationship between physician and patient. Critics of this argument state this relationship includes the right of well-established physicians to charge as much as their consciences allow.

IN ANSWER to the argument that low income groups lack medical attention, the speaker declared that in many cases there is a disinclination to give medical care priority over luxuries and non-essentials.

Instead, this class of people often spends cash on cigarettes, liquor and cosmetics when that money should have gone toward medical attention.

Dr. Clodfelter contended that socialized medicine would not improve medical service in America. He quoted a Brookings Institute survey as revealing the United States has better overall health than any other great nation, that under its voluntary system, American medicine has made more progress than any other nation.

The speaker made little reference to the British socialized medicine plan which went into effect July 5. Under this system, 36.7 million persons are now entitled to medical care by the government.

Estimated maximum income for British doctors, with all extras such as obstetrics, is $20,000. For the straight practitioner with a maximum of 4,000 patients: $14,000. As of July 5, a total of 21,341 of an estimated 23,000 British physicians had signed up for the voluntary program. They will get a yearly retainer of $1,200. With a guarantee of $3.50 per patient per year, the maximum for straight prac-

Bigger Supply Of Meat Seen If ... And ... But

COLUMBUS, July 20 — We might have more meat—someday—if—

BUT... It'll be a long time comin'.

C. W. Hammans, farm marketing specialist at Ohio State university, declared today that any "noticeable" increase in the country's meat supply will be delayed "at least" until Fall, and even then any increase will depend on a good corn crop.

Hammans explained that pork makes up about 50 percent of the total meat supply, and that farmers can step up little pig production in the Spring of 1949—if lower feed prices make it worth while.

The university expert, however, saw only light supplies in prospect for the remainder of July and August. The high point in supply, he said, probably would come in November and December, despite the fact that the normal heavy marketing months are August through November for cattle, August through October for vealers, September and October for lambs, and November and December for hogs.

The Salmon river country in Idaho was so wild and impassable that the Lewis and Clark expedition was unable to penetrate it.

Tests Show Fertilizer Boosts General Yields Of Wheat

7-9½ Bushel Hike Found In Indiana

Following Crops Also Benefit

Fertilizing wheat paid dividends in crop increases averaging seven to 9½ bushels per acre, Purdue research men have revealed as the result of 1947 studies conducted in 15 Indiana counties.

Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, says the tests reveal that wheat yields increased seven bushels per acre when fertilizer applications averaged from 150 to 200 pounds per acre.

When the plant food treatment was boosted to 300 to 400 pounds per acre, average production gains of 9½ bushels were obtained.

Yields on unfertilized land averaged 22.8 bushels for the demonstrations in the counties.

"Considering current wheat prices and the relatively low cost of fertilizer," Best points out, "these increases paid handsome returns on the wheat alone. Other valuable dividends were reaped on clover and corn crops following the wheat in the rotation."

Demonstrations with wheat started on various soil types last Fall showed somewhat similar results, according to the Purdue research men.

WHEN 165 pounds of 0-12-12 was applied on six Southern Indiana upland soils, increases of five bushels per acre resulted. When the application was doubled, the yield increases averaged seven bushels per acre.

On five sandy loam soils the crop ran out of nitrogen in the Spring of 1947. The full increase was obtained only when the Fall fertilizer applications was supplemented with Spring applied nitrogen.

Four hundred pounds of 0-20-20 at seeding time last Fall, with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate broadcast in April, produced yields averaging 37 bushels per acre, compared to 22.5 for the unfertilized areas. The Fall fertilizer alone made a three bushel per acre increase.

"Applications of 300 to 350 pounds of 3-12-12 are being recommended for wheat on practically all upland silt or clay loam soils and for sandy loams," says a statement by the Purdue agronomy department.

"If the 3-12-12 cannot be obtained, then 2-12-6 is a good substitute for the wheat crop itself. The additional potash in the 3-12-12, however, is especially important for the clover and corn crops following the small grain."

On the soils and crops farm near LaFayette, applications of 300 pounds of 3-12-12 on wheat have produced an average of 40 bushels per acre for the past nine years. In addition to the plant food treatment, the land is manured regularly for corn which follows clover in the rotation.
